Question 82: Units operating with low main fractionator bottoms yield encounter a number of problems including coking and fouling in the slurry system and increased catalyst loading in the circulating slurry. What problems have you encountered and what practices have you done to manage these problems?

Print as PDF: Tags Catalysts Couling Operability Process Reactor Vessel Regenerator Reliability Slide Valves

Year

2014